It affords me pleasure to assure you that after using Dr. C. McLane's Celebrated Liver Pills for more than twenty years in my family, that I regard them as being superior to any i may ever used or have seen used. I have not med them to ensus that and had to try others, and I have tried a good variety, but I have never had any to act so promptly, profably, and I have tried a good variety, but I have never had any to act so promptly, profably, and wife, and children, with the most gradifying results. Her children, having used them on my own with such easy and happy effect, I would recommend them to one and to all. These pills do the work—do it promptly, do it well, and leave no life effects behind. As a bile remover, as filver corrector, as a forerunner preparing the system for quinine, there is no pill or medicine equal to Dr. C. McLane's Celebrated Liver Pills. I expect to use them as long as I live, if they continue as good as they have been in the past.

WOMEN'S POLITICS. How They Find Ample Grievances at th

Women's politics sometimes crop in an amusing way. At Mirs Cleveland's last luncheon party one of the guests was appallingly late. The hour for luncheon was two o'clock. The guests had been up stairs to leave wraps and examine the liagram of the table, so they knew just magram of the table, so they knew just where and by whom they would sit. Then going down to the East Room, they were received by the hostess and time passed on. The groups talked and talked and looked at the portraits of George and Martha Wathington. Still time passed on and there was no move on Mas Cleveland's part to lead the way to the dining-room. The band played, and the waiting so much a mystery to guests and ing-room. The band played, and the waiting so much a mystery to guests and anxiety to hostess, continued until just a quarter of 3. Then the cause of the delay appeared. The one tardy guest who had kept the hostess and the forty-eight other guests waiting three-quarters of an hour, walked blandly in, with her little shopping beg on her arm. One swift glance, like an electric light, swept over the face of the waiting guests. The face of every Republican Rerpesentative's wife said, "I am so thankful she is a Democrat," and the face of every Democratic Representative's wife said, "I she was only a Republican!" When they got out of the house and had a chance to talk over the "unheard of breach of cliquette" the Republican women expressed their joy that the delinquent was not one of them, and the Democratic women were both mad and sad because she was one of them. Then they got together to decide whether the offense was committed. both mad and sad because she was one of them. Then they got together to decide whether the offense was committed through innocent ignorance or willful indifference. When they found that the offender had been in "official life" for twelve years they said unanimously, "It is unpardonable." The story is true. But it does not end here. The majority of the guests declare that Miss Cloveland's consideration should have been for them, and deration should have been for them, and hat, after waiting five or ten minutes at nost, she should have led the way to the most, see shouten have red the way to the function, and not kept the forty-eight punctual guests waiting nearly an hour for one delinquent. Heretofore etiquette has been inexorable in never permitting a tardy guest to keep a dinner or luncheon waiting over five minutes.

Powderly on Temperance,
From an Address to the Knights of Labor.

In the whole English language I can find no word that strikes more terror to my soul than the one word, "Rum." It was born in hell ere the flat of "no redemption" had gone forth. Its life on earth has been one of ruin to the hopes of youth and the peace of old age, It has robbed childhood of its delights. It has stolen the laugh from the lips of innocence, the bloom from the cheeks of manhood. It has touched the heart of old age like the tip of a poisoned arrow. Its sound, as it gurgles from the neck of shottle, echoes through many a desolathousehold as the kissing of a thousand serpents. You may deem me too radical on this point. Yet I never interfere with the rights of a man to drink if he so elects. I hold I have a right to and deshun rum as I would an enraged tiger, neither meddling with tron allowing it to meddle with me. So long as it keeps o meddle with me. So long as it keeps ts distance I am content to leave it alone, its distance I am content to leave it alone, but the moment it interferes with my rights by coming into the Knights of La-bor, then my soul rises in arms against it, and I can find no words too bitter, no de-nunciation too scathing to hurl against it
